I love seeing the magic light in a child's eyes when they learn to use a new word in a foreign language. I'm very proud of the colorful energy that makes Spanish so vibrant.

After the birth of my daughter in 2005, I've been more excited than ever about quality programs for young children, so I decided to take the plunge in 2006 and launch my own business teaching Spanish to children and families in a fun and engaging way. I'm not sure I could have done this in my hometown of Cali, Colombia, but I know my experience as a teacher there and in urban, suburban and rural schools in Massachusetts has focused me on a mission.

I'm intent on ensuring that old ways of language learning, through rote memorization and out-of-context vocabulary lessons, are replaced by a brand of "full-spirit" dance and play that brings language learning alive for the youngest and most curious learners – from 6 months to 6 years – along with supportive parents and caretakers. I'm now growing, hiring dedicated teachers and offering classes throughout Boston, including at Newton's Green Planet. 123 Spanish Together aims to open minds to a changing world that requires upcoming generations to communicate across cultures and capitalize on diversity. To enliven classes and help families learn together at home, I assemble my materials and lessons, engage musicians in Colombia to produce CDs, and keep my website fresh with music, activities and information on the benefits of early language learning.
